

COURSE OUTLINE

Art 102-H
Survey of Art History II

I. Catalog Statement

Art 102 is a survey of western architecture, painting, and sculpture from the Renaissance to modern times. The visual arts of the Renaissance, Baroque, and Modern periods in Europe and the United States are discussed. Emphasis is placed on integrating the development of art forms with the geographic, social, political, philosophical, and religious characteristics of these cultures. The honors course will be enhanced in one or more of the following ways:

1. Students will take essay exams that require analysis of artworks in terms of style, subject matter, and social and historical context.
2. Students will read assignments prior to class sessions in order to use class time more productively for further analysis and discussion of specific examples.
3. Students will read and prepare a written analysis of one or more journal articles from scholarly art historical publications.
4. Students will visit a local art museum and write an analysis of a work of art. This analysis must include a discussion of the subject matter and style of the artwork selected as well as a discussion of how it reflects the time in which the object was created.
5. Students will be required to write a traditional 5-10 page term paper on a topic relevant to the content of the course. This paper must be correctly cited and referenced.
